Foreword

This is the forty fourth issue of the annual Statistical Diary published by the Economics and Statistics Division of the State Planning Institute, Uttar Pradesh. The data presented in this diary has been examined and approved by the Uttar Pradesh Statistical Co-ordination Committee appointed by the State Government. The valuable suggestions made by this committee have been taken into consideration while compiling the diary.

The earlier publications in this series have been found useful by policy makers, administrators as well as research scholars. It is hoped that the present issue will also prove equally useful. This diary is not an exhaustive one and thus users are advised to consult other publications of the Economics and Statistics Division also for further detailed information. Explanatory notes indicating the limitations of data have been given at the end of this publication. Sources of data have also been indicated at end of each table.

We are anxious to improve the diary from year to year. Suggestions for further improvement from the users will, therefore, be gratefully received.
